The Standards for Leadership and Management

Introduction

The Standards for Leadership and Management, which supersede the Standard for Headship (Scottish Executive, 2005), include both the Standard for Middle Leadership and the Standard for Headship. The Standards for Leadership and Management are part of the suite of GTC Scotland's Professional Standards which also include the Standards for Registration and the Standards for Career-Long Professional Learning and have been developed to support the self-evaluation and professional learning of those in, or aspiring to, formal leadership roles in schools.

These standards are underpinned by the themes of values, sustainability and leadership. Professional values are at the core of the Standards for Leadership and Management. They are integral to, and demonstrated through, all our professional relationships and practices.

“Learning for Sustainability” is a whole-school commitment that helps the school and its wider community develop the knowledge, skills, attitudes, values and practices needed to take decisions which are compatible with a sustainable future in a just and equitable world. Learning for sustainability has been embedded within the Standards for Leadership and Management to support leaders in actively embracing and promoting principles and practices of sustainability in all aspects of their work.

GTC Scotland recognises that effective leadership depends on the principles of collegiality. All teachers should have opportunities to be leaders. They lead learning for, and with, all learners with whom they engage. They also work with, and support the development of, colleagues and other partners. The Standards for Leadership and Management include a focus on leadership for learning, teacher leadership, and working collegially to build leadership capacity in others.

Elements of all of the standards are organised into inter-related categories with Professional Values and Personal Commitment at the heart. These elements are inherently linked to each other in the development of teachers, and one aspect does not exist independently of the others. It is this inter-relationship among all of the categories which develops their understanding, their practice and their professionalism.

Leadership and Management

Leadership is central to educational quality. Leadership is the ability to:

- ❖ develop a vision for change, which leads to improvements in outcomes for learners and is based on shared values and robust evaluation of evidence of current practice and outcomes;
- ❖ mobilise, enable and support others to develop and follow through on strategies for achieving that change;

Management is the operational implementation and maintenance of the practices and systems required to achieve this change.

Those in, or aspiring to, promoted roles (Principal Teacher, Depute Head Teacher, Head Teacher) within the education system will develop increasing responsibility and capacity in relation to the kinds of roles outlined here. These roles may include responsibility for team and line management. All leaders have a responsibility for ensuring the mobilisation of inter-agency working across the learning community and beyond, particularly by building staff capability, in order to achieve positive outcomes for all learners.

Middle leaders in schools will have different areas of responsibility in addition to enhanced pedagogical skills, which may include curriculum leadership, departmental or faculty leadership, pastoral leadership, leadership in additional support provision, or leadership of school improvement priorities. They may have line management responsibility for a team of staff, lead a team delivering a specific area of provision, or a team involved in development activities. In taking their particular areas of responsibility forward, middle leaders will work and contribute to the school improvement agenda, particularly in building a culture of teaching and learning to address the needs of all learners, while also contributing to the development of capability more generally.

Head Teachers, working with others, establish, sustain and enhance a culture of learning and a positive ethos in collaboration with the whole school community to ensure that every learner achieves his/her potential. Head Teachers are accountable for ensuring that the context and culture are set for others to lead effectively and that there is a clear and agreed focus on self-evaluation and improvement.

Head Teachers and other educational leaders contribute to leadership for improvement at system level (authority and national level). This includes the ability to offer significant support to peers and other educational establishments or make significant contributions to policy development across cluster, local authority or national education systems.

The Standards for Leadership and Management are designed to be used in conjunction with the Framework for Educational Leadership (Education Scotland, 2012) to support individual self-evaluation and reflection as an integral part of leadership development. It is vital that leadership development is supported by effective and systematic Professional Review and Development (PRD) and Professional Update processes.

Purpose

The Standards for Leadership and Management will be used for multiple purposes, including:

- ❖ support for self-evaluation and reflection for teachers in, and aspiring to, formal leadership roles in our schools;
- ❖ the design of programmes for aspiring or serving middle leaders;
- ❖ the design of programmes leading to the attainment of the professional award and / or academic qualification leading to the Standard for Headship;
- ❖ an assessment framework for such programmes;
- ❖ a template to plan and enhance coherent leadership development pathways and programmes;
- ❖ informing the process of recruitment and selection;
- ❖ contributing to dialogue about leadership and management.

The Standards for Leadership and Management have not been designed as benchmarks of teacher competence and therefore should not be used in this way.

1 Professional Values and Personal Commitment

The Professional Values and Personal Commitment should be read in conjunction with the GTC Scotland Code of Professionalism and Conduct (COPAC).

Professional values are at the core of the Professional Standards. The educational experiences of all our learners are shaped by the values and dispositions of all those who work to educate them. Values are complex and are the ideals by which we shape our practice as professionals. Starting with us as individuals, values extend to all those for whom we are responsible and to the world in which we live.

They drive an unswerving personal commitment to all learners' intellectual, social and ethical growth and well-being. They are integral to, and demonstrated through, all our professional relationships and practices and all that we do to meet our professional commitments and obligations as teachers registered with GTC Scotland.

Professionalism also implies the need to ask critical questions of educational policies and practices and to examine our attitudes and beliefs. Values, and the connections between values and practices, need to be regularly re-appraised over the course of teachers' careers as society and the needs of learners change and as understanding develops. This is central to the adaptability, responsiveness and relevance of the profession.

The Professional Values and Personal Commitment core to being a teacher are:

❖ Social Justice

- Embracing locally and globally the educational and social values of sustainability, equality and justice and recognising the rights and responsibilities of future as well as current generations.
- Committing to the principles of democracy and social justice through fair, transparent, inclusive and sustainable policies and practices in relation to: age, disability, gender and gender identity, race, ethnicity, religion and belief and sexual orientation.
- Valuing as well as respecting social, cultural and ecological diversity and promoting the principles and practices of local and global citizenship for all learners.
- Demonstrating a commitment to engaging learners in real world issues to enhance learning experiences and outcomes, and to encourage learning our way to a better future.

- Respecting the rights of all learners as outlined in the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC) and their entitlement to be included in decisions regarding their learning experiences and have all aspects of their well-being developed and supported.

❖ Integrity

- Demonstrating openness, honesty, courage and wisdom.
- Critically examining personal and professional attitudes and beliefs and challenging assumptions and professional practice.
- Critically examining the connections between personal and professional attitudes and beliefs, values and practices to effect improvement and, when appropriate, bring about transformative change in practice.

❖ Trust and Respect

- Acting and behaving in ways that develop a culture of trust and respect through, for example, being trusting and respectful of others within the school, and with all those involved in influencing the lives of learners in and beyond the learning community.
- Providing and ensuring a safe and secure environment for all learners within a caring and compassionate ethos and with an understanding of wellbeing.
- Demonstrating a commitment to motivating and inspiring learners, acknowledging their social and economic context, individuality and specific learning needs and taking into consideration barriers to learning.

❖ Professional Commitment

- Engaging with all aspects of professional practice and working collegiately with all members of our educational communities with enthusiasm, adaptability and constructive criticality.
- Committing to lifelong enquiry, learning, professional development and leadership as core aspects of professionalism and collaborative practice.

2 Strategic Vision, Professional Knowledge and Understanding and Interpersonal Skills and Abilities

This section outlines the Strategic Vision, Professional Knowledge and Understanding and Interpersonal Skills and Abilities required of all teachers in formal leadership roles. Therefore, they apply to Head Teachers and to middle leaders in our schools, and are in addition to those outlined in the Standards for Registration and the Standard for Career-Long Professional Learning.

2.1 Strategic Vision

This element builds upon the professional values expected of all teachers. Leaders exemplify in their personal and professional life, and in the way they lead the learning community, the vision and culture they seek to develop throughout the establishment.

Leaders steer the creation and the sharing of the strategic vision, ethos and aims for the establishment, which inspire and motivate learners, staff and all members of the learning community and its partners and sets high expectations for every learner.

Central to the development and demonstration of this strategic vision, all leaders commit to and model career-long learning as a 'leading learner'; and thus encourage others to engage in career-long learning to enhance their practice.

2.2 Professional Knowledge and Understanding

This element identifies the complex knowledge and understanding of educational thinking and developments in society, education and teaching and learning which are required by successful leaders.

2.2.1 Teaching and Learning

Leaders engage critically with knowledge and understanding of research and developments in teaching and learning and work with others to ensure the application of relevant development to improving outcomes for learners.

2.2.2 Education Policy

Leaders apply their enhanced knowledge and critical understanding of research and developments in education policy to support school development.

2.2.3 Social and environmental trends and developments

Leaders keep abreast of, and apply their enhanced knowledge and understanding of, contemporary developments in society, digital technologies, the environment and the wider global community (including trends and changes in family patterns, work patterns, the media, leisure and politics) and consider the implications for their leadership.

2.2.4 Leadership and management

Leaders continuously widen their knowledge and understanding of leadership and management concepts and practices related to their context and work with others to ensure this is embodied in practice.

2.3 Interpersonal Skills and Abilities

This element describes a range of interpersonal skills and abilities on which leaders draw upon in leading and managing effectively. For maximum impact, successful leaders will exercise these skills in combinations appropriate to the context in which they are leading and managing.

2.3.1 Demonstrating self-awareness and inspiring and motivating others

Leaders continually develop self-awareness; they regularly question their practice through processes of reflection and critical enquiry. They manage self and others effectively, with a commitment to collegiate practice. They build and sustain personal credibility by modelling their commitment to career-long professional learning, integrity and ethical practice, thus developing a culture of trust and respect. They display confidence and courage in the way they deal with criticism and conflict. Leaders encourage the development of leadership qualities in others and cultivate trust and respect among colleagues by fostering leadership opportunities across and beyond the school. They encourage positive relationship building with learners, colleagues, parents and other partners.

2.3.2 Judging wisely and deciding appropriately

Leaders analyse and define situations clearly. They take a positive solution-focused approach to their work. They know how and when to make decisions and use evidence and information to support and inform their judgements. Leaders display a readiness to engage in debate and dialogue and promote constructive ways of achieving improvement, displaying an awareness of the ethical use of power and authority.

2.3.3 Communicating effectively

Leaders show and communicate their deep commitment to the education and well-being of learners in their everyday practices. They are effective communicators within the school and the wider community and build effective relationships across networks. They listen, express their ideas and feelings clearly, engage in professional dialogue and constructive feedback and establish effective organisational communication. They make use of a variety of appropriate media in doing so. Leaders demonstrate openness to, and honesty with, others. They have a clear understanding of confidentiality and apply that knowledge to all engagements, practices and procedures.

2.3.4 Demonstrating political insight

Leaders have an enhanced understanding of the dynamics of political power and influence in the relationship between schools and society, and the consequent implications for the work of their organisation. They understand the political and social context and the ways in which this impacts on schools and those within schools, taking account of this in their leadership and management practices.

3 The Professional Actions of Middle Leaders

The Key Purpose of Middle Leaders

Middle leaders, within their areas of responsibility, lead and collaborate with team(s) to establish, enhance and ensure high quality learning experiences and outcomes for all learners. In the context of middle leadership, ‘team’ is used widely and refers to colleagues that middle leaders have line management responsibility for, as well as those who they may work with in and across departments or project teams.

In line with the visions and values of the school, and within the school, departmental and faculty improvement agendas, middle leaders:

- (i) Develop a range of strategies for individual and collective self-evaluation which contribute to school improvement;
- (ii) Develop coherent approaches to professional learning which build and sustain teachers’ practice;
- (iii) Lead and work collaboratively to enhance teaching which leads to high quality learning experiences;
- (iv) Build and sustain partnerships with colleagues, learners, parents and other stakeholders to meet the identified needs of all learners;
- (v) Manage allocated resources proactively and effectively to meet learning and development priorities.

4 The Professional Actions of Head Teachers

The Key Purpose of Head Teachers

The Head Teacher acts as the leading professional in a school and as an officer in the local authority. The Head Teacher also plays a pivotal role within the broader children's services network.

Head Teachers lead the whole school community in order to establish, sustain and enhance a positive ethos and culture of learning through which every learner is able to learn effectively and achieve their potential.

In line with the vision and values of the school, Head Teachers, working with others:

- (i) Establish, sustain and enhance the culture of self-evaluation for school improvement;
- (ii) Develop staff capability, capacity and leadership to support the culture and practice of learning;
- (iii) Ensure consistent high quality teaching and learning for all learners;
- (iv) Build and sustain partnerships with learners, families and relevant partners to meet the identified needs of all learners;
- (v) Allocate resources effectively in line with identified strategic and operational priorities.

Across all of these areas, Head Teachers contribute to leadership for improvement at school and system level.
